

CHIPOTLE REVEALS AMERICA'S MOST CHIPOTLE-OBSESSED COLLEGE TOWNS AND CELEBRATES THE CLASS OF 2026 WITH GIFT CARD OFFER

- New Chipotle U Rewards data highlights top group-order campuses, delivery hotspots and regional flavor trends
- Starting May 14, the first 10,000 guests who purchase $40 or more in graduation-themed digital gift cards will receive a buy-one, get-one free entrée code*

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif., May 11, 2026 — Chipotle Mexican Grill (NYSE: CMG) today released new Chipotle U Rewards data that reveals how college students are ordering nationwide, alongside a limited-time graduation promotion for the Class of 2026.

Ordering Trends in College Towns

Ever since opening its first restaurant in Denver across from a university campus, Chipotle has been a go-to destination for students craving quick and delicious real food. Now, less than a year after launching Chipotle U Rewards, the brand is offering a snapshot of how college towns across the nation are ordering Chipotle:

- Columbus, Ohio leads the nation in group orders, making it the top destination for shared meals. Columbus is also the top college town for orders featuring guac.
- Boston, Mass. orders the most delivery, reflecting a strong preference for convenience.
- Baton Rouge, La. tops the charts in Queso Blanco, bringing bold flavor to every order.
- Norman, Okla. orders the most burritos, keeping it classic.
- Kent, Ohio leads in taco orders, pointing to a preference for variety and customization.
- West Lafayette, Ind. orders the most Chipotle, making it America's most Chipotle-obsessed college town.

"Chipotle U Rewards gives us a real-time look at how Gen Z is engaging with our brand, from everyday meals to social moments like group orders and celebrations," said Curt Garner, President, Chief Strategy and Technology Officer. "Students are connecting through Chipotle—whether it's sharing meals with friends or recognizing milestones like graduation—and we're using these insights to deliver more personalized value through the program."

Something Extra for Grads

Chipotle is helping fans celebrate the Class of 2026 with a limited-time Graduation Gift Card promotion.
